Dear Students, Prosopon School invites you to another online workshop. This study will continue the theme of Resurrection in Byzantine iconography. The theme of Resurrection was already explored in our previous study, the icons of the Myrrh Bearing Women and the Resurrection of Lazarus. The Resurrection of Jesus Christ icon, also known as The Descent into Hell or the Harrowing of Hell, is an important image used for veneration during Paschal services . There is the beautiful hymnography of the service which can help us meditate on the subject, explaining the icon. An interesting fact about this iconographic subject is that unlike many other icons of the liturgical feasts, this one is not based on a direct scripture reference. The traditional (canonical) composition of this icon was formed perhaps about the 10th century. Earlier depictions were of a more symbolic character, in scenes from the Old Testament.

The format of this workshop is slightly different from the previous online workshops. There will be recordings of the process- technical demonstrations from the beginning to the end. The complete series of recorded segments will be posted from the beginning for viewing online or download. There are four scheduled Zoom meetings through February and one final meeting for critique of student work in the fall of 2024. Each Zoom meeting will have an iconology discussion on the subjects related to the icon, with some time for technical questions and answers and student work critique. The prerecorded format of instructions allows students to work on their own schedule; private consultation with the instructor can be arranged at any time via email.

Students will use their own materials and tools. The dimensions of the board are standard 13"x17". The sketch will be mailed upon registration.

To register please, fill the registration form and mail it with the full payment ($350) included to
